WHY IT'S DIFFERENT

Surrounded by its own sugarcane plantations, the Mhoba artisanal distillery is located in the hills of the Onderberg district of Mpulamanga, South Africa.

Unlike most traditional rums, which are produced from molasses from refined sugar production, Mhoba rum is made from the pure juice of local sugarcane, variety Nkomazi, and contains no additives, coloring agents or artificial flavors. The entire production process takes place on the property, from the cultivation of the sugarcane to the labeling of the bottles.

Distillation is carried out by Robert Greaves in self-produced Pot Still with high reflux. Aging takes place in ex-wine red French oak barrels.
